WASHINGTON (AP) — The Communications Satellite Corp., just turned five, is at least a full year ahead of its own ambitious schedule in developing global communications system, but it's hitting snags.

Since its incorporation in February 1963, Comsat has moved skimmingly within the operating framework marked out for it by Congress and the Federal Communications Commission.

Now it is bumping into the legal and regulatory boundaries of that framework.

Comsat cannot even find ways to spend its money. It is still sitting on at least two-thirds of the $200 million capital that eager investors shelled out for its stock in 1964.

That's because it is limited to one technology—satellites—and to one sphere of operation—international. Further, it cannot deal directly with communications users, but must act as a wholesaler in selling channel time to other carriers, who resell to the public.

Comsat would like to acquire the other U.S. overseas cable and radio carriers and become the U.S. "chosen instrument" for international communications—a one-company monopoly, like those of other nations.

Some of the other carriers seem willing to merge, but nobody can move without an act of Congress removing the antitrust barriers. The administration isn't sure it wants to propose that.

To study that and a score of interrelated communications problems, President Johnson created last August a Task Force on Communications Policy. He gave it a year to make recommendations. Meantime decision-making at the FCC appears to be stalled.

Comsat would like to put $58 million of its idle cash into a pilot-scale domestic satellite system, with free channels for educational TV.

A decision from the FCC isn't in sight. The agency has also been unable to decide on the proposal of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. to lay a big new Atlantic cable.

Comsat says the cable would cost more and provide fewer channels than its satellites—and would cut into Comsat's potential markets overseas.

Disagreements Acknowledged by Vance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special envoy Cyrus Vance acknowledges there was disagreement during meetings with South Korean officials over instant retaliation to any new North Korean attacks.

Vance told newsmen after an hour-long talk with President Johnson Thursday on his mission to Seoul that there were "differing views among different individuals" on the question of possible retaliation.

The South Korean government reportedly asked the United States for revision of the security treaty between the two nations to make instant retaliation possible.

The treaty now provides both countries will meet common danger in accordance with their constitutional processes.

Vance said no secret agreements were made during the meetings and there were no understandings beyond the language of a joint communique issued by Vance and South Korean President Chung Hee Park.

The communique said extraordinary measures were being taken to strengthen South Korean and American forces to make them ready for any contingency.

Vance said he returned from the meeting with Park and other South Korean officials with "renewed confidence of the solidarity of our alliance."

"I felt the exchange was very useful and a good understanding was gained with respect to their views and ours," he said.

Youth Riding Scooter Is Fatally Hurt

MAGNET COVE, Ark. (AP) — Danny Strahn, 16, of Magnet Cove, was fatally injured Thursday when his motor scooter collided with a car on U.S. 270 in front of the high school here.

$2.7 Million Is Low Bid

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A Missouri firm, Bernard McMenamy Contractors Inc., of St. Charles, outbid six other firms on an Army Engineers project calling for the dredging of 11.6 miles of Arkansas River navigation channel from the Ozark Lock and Dam downstream for a distance of 14 miles.

The McMenamy company bid $2,724,340. The government estimate of the cost of the project was $2,870,881. The project includes the removal of 13 million cubic yards of dirt.

Says Reds to Bombard Key Strongpoint

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some U.S. military analysts predict the North Vietnamese may never assault the Khe Sanh strongpoint with infantry but instead may try to bombard it into uselessness from protected positions.

That is the way these military professionals interpret reports of extensive communist burrowing and tunneling into the hilly country near Khe Sanh, a position held by about 5,000 U.S. Marines in the northwest corner of South Vietnam.

These officers suggest that by the time the monsoon starts breaking in about a month, the North Vietnamese will have dug in their artillery so deeply it will be invulnerable even under the weight of heavier U.S. bombing expected with clearing skies.

The North Vietnamese customarily dig passages and tunnels into which they roll their artillery pieces for protection between firings.

They did this during last Fall's bombardment of Con Thien, a Marine outpost to the east of Khe Sanh. The Reds hammered Con Thien for a month, inflicting severe casualties.

The U.S. military analysts, noting isolated Khe Sanh must be resupplied by air, suggested the Communists could focus enough artillery and mortar fire on the base's airstrip to make it unusable, thus possibly forcing the Americans to abandon the stronghold.

But other U.S. officers forecast an eventual all-out North Vietnamese infantry attack on Khe Sanh.

Many professionals believe any mass attack must come within the next month or so if it is to come at all.

When the sky is clear, the United States will be able to send about 600 tactical fighter and fighter-bomber sorties and 40 to 50 B52 bomber sorties a day against the Communist positions.

Two North Vietnamese army divisions numbering as many as 20,000 men are reported by U.S. intelligence to be arrayed in the Khe Sanh area, with two and possibly three more North Vietnamese divisions.

Skeletons Probe Is Adjourned

STAR CITY, Ark. (AP) — The Lincoln County Grand Jury took the day off today, but will reconvene Monday to continue its investigation of the skeletons found at Cummins Prison Farm.

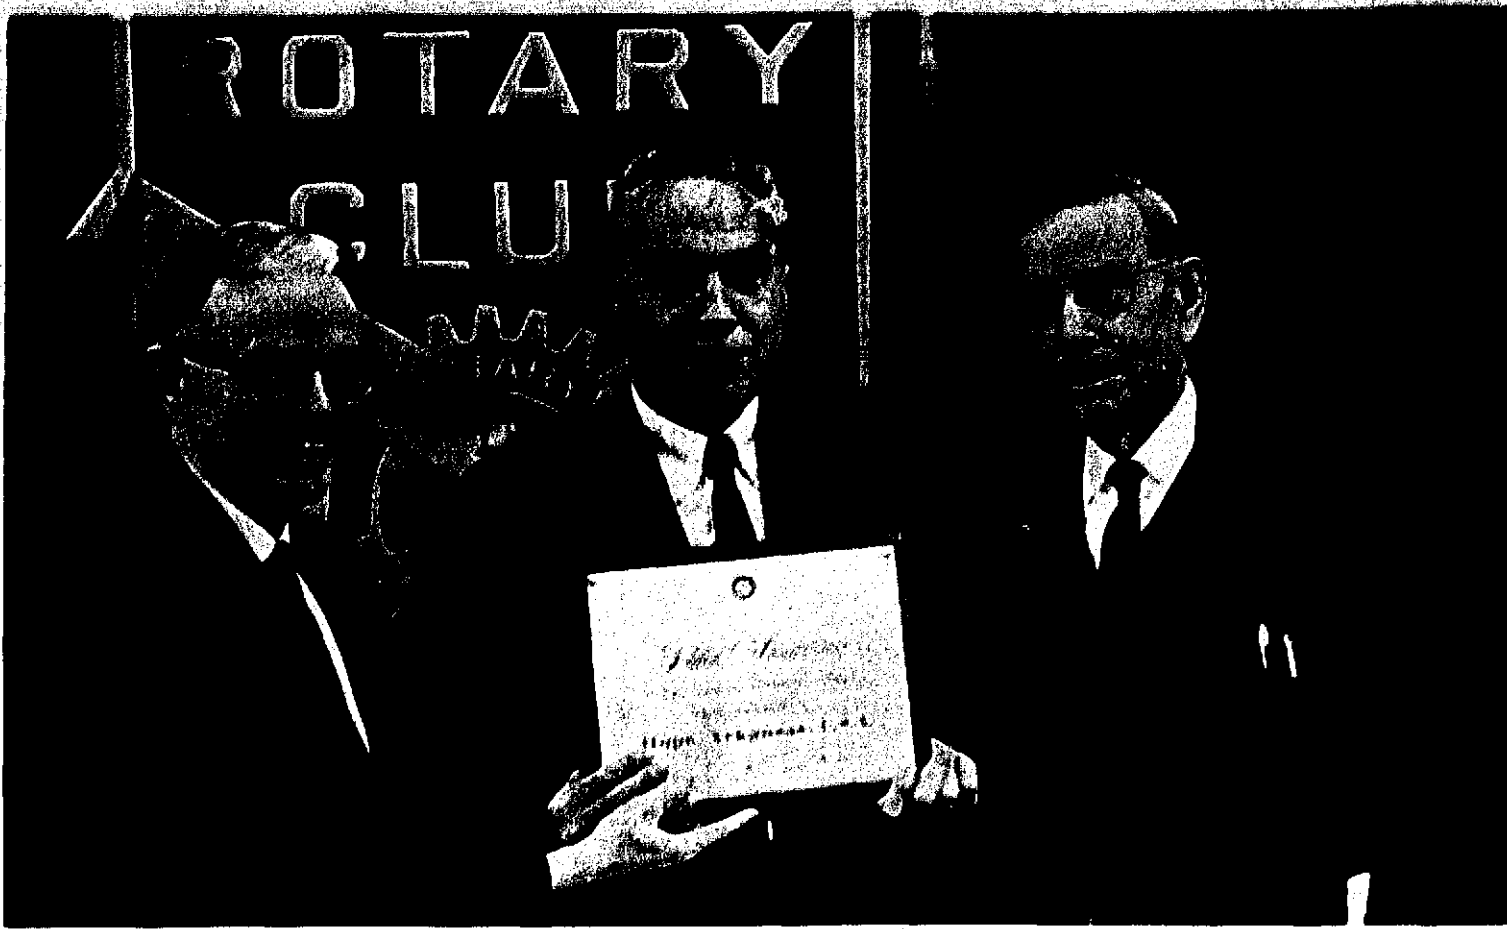

Among the witnesses expected to testify Monday are four persons subpoenaed by the Grand Jury Thursday: Conway Payne, Willie Bratchet and Bill Woodward, all Cummins inmates, and Robert Van Winkle, assistant prison superintendent in charge of Tucker Prison Farm.

Among those who appeared before the jury Thursday were Bob Scott, Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's aide for prison affairs; former State Police Director Lynn Davis, who represented Rockefeller in a State Police investigation of the exhumations; Mose Autry, a Cummins inmate who served as yardman, or head trusty, until he escaped, and several other inmates.

Davis, now the governor's consultant on highway safety, spent a day at the prison the day after the skeletons were dug up Jan. 29. He spent about 30 minutes inside the jury room.

The Grand Jury began its work Monday, after Circuit Judge Henry Smith of Pine Bluff instructed it to determine whether there was a violation of state law when the bodies were exhumed. He mentioned nothing about investigating charges that the skeletons were those of murdered inmates.

GI Charged With Rifle He Lost

CORONA, Calif. (AP) — "I didn't lose it on purpose," says Ernest J. Wagner, a former helicopter gunner in Vietnam who was charged $71.20 by the Army for a missing rifle.

Wagner, 24, honorably discharged after two years in the Army, said Thursday the whole matter rests in the hands of his congressman, Rep. Henry C. Schadeberg, R-Wis.

The incident took place last February at a base 25 miles west of Saigon.

"Everything, all my gear, was on the helicopter ready to go on a mission," said Wagner in an interview after arriving at his brother's home in Corona. "At the last minute, this new gunner in the company said, 'Can I take your place?' And I said yes."

"So they came back and my rifle was missing. I imagine it just fell out."

The gunner who took his place on the mission told him that if the Army tried to make him pay for the M14 rifle, Wagner said, he should tell his congressman.

Spelling Has No Connection

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk suggested to Congress last year the executive branch was better equipped to move quickly on world affairs problems because of what he termed "the pace of the legislative process."

There's probably no connection, but the index of the new edition of the congressional directory misspells his last name Rusk.

That's what he did, Wagner said he was informed by the Army last October he was to pay for the rifle within 30 days or face legal action.

An aide to Schadeberg told the veteran recently to ignore any more letters from the Army, Wagner said.

The Army said Wednesday that an investigating officer had found Wagner negligent for "placing his rifle on an aircraft in which he was neither a passenger nor a member of the crew."

"I think it's very poor procedure whether it's in the books or not," responded Schadeberg at Burlington, Wis. "It isn't good public relations and it doesn't make sense."

Burleson May Run for Congress

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — David Burleson, a Fayetteville attorney, says he thinks he can unite the Democratic party in the Third Congressional District and that he is considering running for congress this summer.

Burleson was defeated by Rep. J.W. Trimble of Berryville in the 1966 primaries. Trimble was defeated in the general election by John Paul Hammer, a Republican from Harrison.

Burleson informed the Executive Committee of the University of Arkansas Young Democrats that he would enter the Democratic primaries if he could obtain need assistance.

"If the Democratic nominee for Third District congressman this year is acceptable to all factions of the Democratic party, he will defeat the Republican incumbent in November," Burleson said.

"I sincerely believe that I can secure the support of all elements of our party if I am the nominee."

Redistrict Plan Poses New Question

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The judicial order reapportioning Indiana's congressional districts could pose a new question for the Supreme Court: What part should political considerations play under the "one man, one vote" principle.

Rep. Ray J. Madden, D-Ind., says the order Wednesday by a special three-judge federal panel will be appealed to the Supreme Court as an example of "political gerrymandering."

The high court's apportionment decisions so far have concentrated on assuring nearly equal numbers of people in each congressional district.

The Indiana case could mark the ultimate extension of the high court's involvement in what the late Justice Felix Frankfurter called a "political thicket" in warning against letting apportionment matters come before the federal courts.

By a 2-1 vote, the three federal judges established a new alignment for Indiana's 11 congressional districts which Democrats say will increase the present 6-5 Republican majority to 9-2. Only two Democrats, Reps. Madden of Gary and Lee H. Hamilton of Columbus would have districts with substantial Democratic majorities.

Democratic Rep. J. Edward Roush would be put into the same district with Republican E. Ross Adair; Democrat John Brademas would get substantial new Republican territory; and Democrat Andrew Jacobs Jr., who represents Indianapolis, would lose half of his old district and pick up parts of two others, both strongly Republican.

Madden, in a House speech, called the ruling—in which two Republican judges outvoted one Democrat—the "result of a Republican conspiracy" to "disenfranchise incumbent Democratic congressmen."

He also called for an investigation of reapportionment cases by the House Judiciary Committee.

To that, Rep. Thomas G. Abernethy, D-Miss., responded that the Indiana case showed Congress should have passed legislation to keep redistricting out of the federal courts.

The Indiana redistricting ended up in court when the Supreme Court rejected an earlier plan because of a 20 per cent variation between the largest and smallest district, and the legislature was unable to agree on a new version.

The new Indiana alignment has districts substantially equal in population, with regular outlines quite unlike the grotesque districts some states have constructed in the past.

A close parallel to the promised appeal by Indiana Democrats came when the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party attacked that state's districts on the grounds they were drawn to prevent election of a Negro from the heavily Negro Delta region.

A three-judge Mississippi court refused to consider the case and William O. Douglas was the only Supreme Court justice who favored hearing it. Like the Indiana districts, Mississippi's are substantially equal and regularly shaped.

Designing congressional districts to favor one party is nothing new, and both parties have benefited from this practice from time to time. Any Supreme Court ruling thus could have an impact as far-reaching as any in the entire apportionment question.

Group Plans Harness and Dog Tracks

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Articles of incorporation were filed in the secretary of state's office Thursday for companies that want to operate harness and greyhound race tracks in Garland County.

The companies, to be known as the Hot Springs Harness Racing Track Corp., and the Hot Springs Greyhound Racing Track Corp., are authorized to issue 2,000 shares each of common stock with no par value. Both listed $300 paid in capital.

Incorporators of the dog track firm were Clyde O. Halk and Harold Lang, both of Hot Springs, Ark., and Mrs. Dorothy Marie Lang were listed as incorporators of the harness track company.

State Revenue Commissioner B. Bryan Larey, who serves as ex-officio secretary of the state Racing Commission, said neither company had asked the commission for a franchise.

Germany Hopes to Bring in British

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — West German officials were hopeful today of getting French president Charles de Gaulle to agree to give the British a few economic breaks.

De Gaulle, who has twice blackballed Britain's bid to join the six-nation European Common Market, was to issue a joint communique with West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger at the close of the semiannual, two-day conference called for by the French-West German treaty of friendship and cooperation.

With De Gaulle still adamantly opposed to admitting Britain to the six-nation Common Market, Kiesinger and his associates undertook to put some flesh on a bare-bones suggestion by De Gaulle that some kind of "arrangement" might be made with Britain.

The West Germans unveiled a free trade plan designed to give Britain a wider market for its industrial goods. It was also reported that some other European nations outside the Common Market—Ireland, Denmark, Norway and perhaps Sweden—would also be included in the plan.

The West Germans hoped such an offer of economic concessions to the British would enlist them in a program of technological cooperation that would give continental industry the advantages of superior British know-how and scientific research.

The amount of flesh put on the bones will determine the attraction of the proposals for Britain and its friends, including a large proportion of the West German Parliament. The proposals will be discussed at a meeting of foreign ministers from the Common Market countries in Brussels Feb. 29.

The French and West German leaders were reported in sharp conflict over American efforts to stop the drain of dollars and gold.

The Johnson administration's measures to correct the U.S. balance of payments deficit provide that no new American capital may be exported to the continent and that 65 per cent of the money earned there by U.S. firms must be sent back to the United States.

Britain, however, is among the countries permitted to get new capital from the United States.

'The Graduate' Author Had a Rough Time

By ELIZABETH BASSETT
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Mention "The Graduate" and young girls melt over Dustin Hoffman, young men sigh over Katharine Ross and movie buffs cheer director Mike Nichols.

But one key person has been overlooked—Charles Webb, who wrote the book that became the movie. Who is he, what has he been doing and has any of the glory rubbed off?

"Well," he said, "some TV people came out and shot me while I was working in the department store."

A department store? "I worked in the stock room, opening up crates of cosmetics. Then I'd put them on a cart and wheel it up to the floor. And I'd empty wastebaskets. I suppose seeing how a stockroom works is of value to a writer."

Webb originally sold the book to Embassy Pictures for $20,000, but with a wife and two young sons the money didn't last forever. "After the movie came out," he said, "I talked to Mike Nichols and told him I liked it. He mentioned there might be the possibility of a 'gift.' Sure enough, 'Joe Levine, the producer, sent me $5,000. When it arrived, I quit the stockroom.'"

"The Graduate" was Webb's first (and so far only) novel published. When he was class of '61 at Williams College, he was awarded a fellowship providing $3,000 a year for three years. During that time he holed up in a room in Cambridge, Mass., and wrote his book.

People talk about the main character's alienation from his parents and society. But according to Webb, "The whole thing is not a conscious essay on social climate. It was more an attempt to portray an individual character. The 'you can't trust anybody over 30' thing happened after publication. I think the unalterable division of ages is a myth."

One of the most controversial bits in the film comes at the end when Benjamin, the graduate, rescues his lady-love from her church wedding-of-convenience. To do this, he wields a tailor's cross to beat back her angry parents. Some felt this was an attack on the church.

Dustin Hoffman, who stars as The Graduate, feels otherwise. "I don't understand the 'big deal. I don't think the cross is so symbolic. Benjie doesn't hurt anyone; he just picks up the nearest thing to defend himself. It's not an attack against Christianity and marriage."

Webb said that as he wrote it, "I remember wondering if no one before had thought of using the cross as a weapon; it's an ideal shape. In a church, it seemed the obvious thing to pick up. People should be provoked; it's healthy and if something is good, it provokes."

"Though the movie and the book are similar in feeling," commented Webb, "I feel it's hard to compare them. The mediums are so different."

"There's a problem now with literature. Films have slowly been taking over. As a novelist I see it as something to fight. The trouble is there aren't enough books around to compete with good movies. It's always been hard to write fiction. New ways of writing fiction have to evolve so that it can compete and command the attention of the public more than it does. It's not that movies have gotten better; it's that writers have abandoned the fundamentals of good writing—telling a story as well as possible."

What of Webb, the graduate? "I've been working on a novel. It is in rough draft form now and is called 'The Last Usher.' It starts with a person asked to usher at the wedding of someone he doesn't know. He agrees to do it and is introduced to the members of the wedding. When the bride meets him, she calls the marriage off and asks if she can move in with him."

Isn't that where "The Graduate" ended?

"Oh no," said Webb vehemently, "the characters are quite different."

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ken Berry always wanted to be a song-and-dance man. Trouble is, song-and-dance men are in little demand nowadays, so he'll have to be content with being star of a television series.

Berry is the central figure in a bold move to retain one of CBS' major assets, the "Andy Griffith Show." This season will be Andy's last; he has wearied of the grind and wants to spread his wings in feature films. His decision was naturally a blow to the network, since the series has for seven years helped maintain CBS' dominance of Monday night.

The production minds came up with a solution: Why not continue the series in the same setting, but with a new star? The result was "Mayberry, R.F.D.," which will occupy the Griffith time slot starting next fall.

"How did I get the job?" asks the handsome, personable Berry. "I'm not quite sure. If they think they're getting another Andy Griffith, they're going to be disappointed. I'm not anything like Andy. I won't even have a Southern accent. But then, several of the characters in the series don't have accents, and no one seems to notice."

Berry will be introduced later this season as a local farmer. He will also be elected president of the City Council so he will have contact with the goings-on in Mayberry. The setting will be the same, but most of the characters will be changed. Remaining will be George Lindsay as Goober Pyle.

"I understand that Andy will be back on the show four times next season," said Berry. "So it

WILL THE REAL TROUBLE-MAKER PLEASE STAND UP
Dear Helen: The redheaded sexpot on our street is driving me off my rocker. You should see how our stupid husbands jump when she bats an eyelash. She wears mini dresses that you simply wouldn't believe. So, I called her up and told her she should dress more ladylike. One thing led to another, and I ended with her getting the telephone company on my neck for vile and abusive language.

What turns me is other wives can't see she's a menace. They even drink coffee and gossip with the little baggage.

How do you go about getting a troublemaker off the block? — TIED OF A SLOB

Dear Tied: Which one? — H

Dear Helen: My husband and I own and operate a small business in a small town. We like to show our appreciation to those who have traded with us during the year by giving them gifts at Christmas time. Many of the recipients are doctors, nurses, ministers, etc. These are not "advertising gifts," but personal things which we have selected especially for them, with special cards.

After several years, I am indeed disillusioned. We have received no acknowledgement whatsoever from any of these people.

Whatever happened to the old-fashioned courtesy of a thank-you note? Wouldn't it be wise to discontinue this practice and give a check instead to a charitable organization? — DIS-ILLUSIONED

Dear Dis: Charitable organizations always appreciate checks — in writing.

But don't ding your customers for an understandable lapse of manners. It's thoughtless but very human to consider a business as inanimate—something which offers services (or gifts) but doesn't expect thanks. This, even when customers know the owners personally. — H

P.S. Your letter will jar many consciences, including mine, and you send a personal thank-you note to the company whose sales-man brought you a bottle of champagne last Tuesday? — H

Dear Helen: Am I turned at "indignant" if she can't stand to see a married woman "caring on" with her husband, she should pull her shades and stop peaking at their good-bye kisses.

I guess she considers me indecent, as I pick up my husband at work and get soundly kissed; no matter who is there. We go to a dance or a corner bar and he still romances me. We sit outside in our car when we come home at night and neck a bit, simply because there we can be alone together and have a little privacy to talk.

No, we're not newly-weds. After 23 years and four kids, however, we're still in love, and not ashamed to show it, decently. — VERY MUCH MARRIED

Dear Helen: "Indignant" must be a love-starved splinter who resents happiness in others. She said the way her neighbors kissed and parked "they don't even act married." What's wrong with that. When you don't "act married," you're on your best behavior and treat your mate as you did when you were engaged. When my husband of four years and I walk down the street, we hold hands. We often park to watch the moon and talk. He kisses me at the door before we go inside. It's lovely to feel unmarriably married — MARRIED PARKER

Prescott, Hope in Semifinals

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

With the Lady Cats playing in the district tournament, the spotlight is taken away from the Bobcats, who have two conference road games this weekend.

This evening at 8:30 p.m. the Hope Lady Cats meet the host Prescott team in the 7-A semifinals, and a win would seal the state tourney wish of the Lady Cats. That game, and probably the Ashdown-Gurdon game at 6:30 p.m., will be broadcast live over KXAR, thanks to special permission from the Prescott school authorities.

Also tonight the Bobcats head for Arkadelphia and a revenge-minded rematch with the Badgers, who defeated the Bobcats 42-30 at Hope several weeks ago. Then tomorrow the Cats buzz down to Camden to play guest to the Fairview Cardinals. The "B" Lizards take the honors in the preliminaries both evenings, starting at 6:30 p.m.

In Prescott, the Lady Cats will be facing a tough opponent, as the Curley Wolves have intent eyes set on Hope's 13-game win streak. The Lady Cats, after making "many mistakes we don't usually make" as Coach Charlotte Gibson commented after Tuesday's 58-46 stamp of Joe T. Robinson, should be about at their peak for this weekend.

In the other semifinal at Prescott, the Ashdown Pantherettes battle upset-minded Gurdon. The Pantherettes and the Lady Cats have identical records at 21-1, and neither will be overconfident. Both Hope and Ashdown have a great deal of pride, and if and when the two squads meet, tears most likely will be shed on both sides at the final buzzer.

Anyway, with such a variety of games on tap for the next two evenings no fan should stay away without a guilty conscience. But don't let this writer make your decision on who to follow, because that could be lethal.

In last night's action at Prescott, the Gurdon Devils fought back from an early deficit to eliminate the Nashville Scrapperettes 32-31 in a thriller.

As both teams were nervous at the start, Nashville jumped ahead and led 9-2 at the quarter. Led by forwards Brenda DeWoody and Marianne Allen, the Go-Devils scored eight straight points, and from that time on neither squad led by more than three points.

That was until the last quarter, though, when Nashville took advantage of the outside shooting of Jayne Toland and turned up 29-23 with 3:23 left.

After a time-out, however, Gurdon was a different ball club, and they promptly proceeded to run off nine straight points. The Scrapperettes then cut it to 32-31 and got possession with half a minute to play. A shot failed just four seconds before the gun, and Gurdon had the game.

In the girls games tonight at Prescott, the Hope Lady Cats risk their favorite's role against the Prescott Curley Wolves at 8:30 p.m., and the Ashdown Pantherettes take on Gurdon at 6:30 p.m. These games will be separated by a junior boys contest, as a junior boys tourney is being held in conjunction with the girls' meet. For some fine action make it up to Prescott and see some outstanding teams play.

Russia May Boycott Olympics

By MORRIS W. ROSENBERG
GRENOBLE, France (AP) —

Suddenly, the Russians are in trouble in Olympic hockey and —just as suddenly—the Olympics

may be in trouble with the Russians in the approaching

Summer Games.

The Russians, the defending champions who hadn't lost an Olympic or world hockey match since 1963, a string of 38 straight games, were 5-4 upset victims to hard-checking Czechoslovakia in the winter games Thursday.

And the possibility—perhaps a far-fetched possibility—arose that the Russians may boycott

the Summer Games. The latter came about on the announcement by the International Olympic Committee that South Africa,

barred from the 1964 Games and these Winter Olympics because of racial policies, would be admitted to the Summer

Games in Mexico City.

Russia and several African nations have threatened a boycott if such an action was taken.

Canada, meanwhile, whipped

Sweden 3-0 in hockey and, along with the Czech upset of Russia, threw the gold medal race into a three-way scramble between Russia, Canada and Czechoslovakia.

Each has a 5-1 record with one game to go in the round-rob-in tourney. The key match appears to be Russia vs. Canada

Saturday. Czechoslovakia plays

Sweden, 4-2, in another Saturday match.

The United States is out of it,

even though the Americans' hockey team provided the only bright spot for the United States

Thursday. The Yanks beat East

Germany 6-4 for their second victory. That gave them a 2-1 record with one game to go,

Finland Saturday.

The Americans were shut out on medals in the five championship finals Thursday, the women's giant slalom, the men's 5-000-meter speed skating, men's and women's luge singles and men's biathlon relay race.

Skaters have picked up all six of the Americans' medals, with

Peggy Fleming's figure skating triumph the only gold. The skiers have only one slim chance left, in the men's special slalom Saturday.

France's fantastic Jean-

Claude Killy is an overwhelming favorite to pick up his third goal medal of the games in that one, with the American team of

Billy Kidd, Jimmy Heuga, Spider Sabich and Rick Chafee rated an even chance—at best—to crack the top three.

Nancy Greene of Canada

copped her second gold medal in the women's giant slalom, with a time of one minute, 51.97

seconds, followed by Annie Famosse of France and Fernanda

Bochaty of Switzerland. Judy

Nagel, Enumclaw, Wash., the top American, was 12th with a time of 1:57.35.

Manfred Schmid of Austria and Erika Lechner of Italy won the men's and women's luge singles. Russia took the biathlon relay and Fred Anton Maier of York was the top American,

Friends Are Passing Hat for Hawkins

MORRILTON, Ark. (AP) — Olen Fullerton of Morrilton, a former school teacher of Conway County Sheriff Marlin Hawkins, said Thursday that he had opened a legal assistance fund for Hawkins in Morrilton.

Fullerton said he mailed letters, asking for contributions, earlier in the week. He indicated distribution of the letters was statewide.

Fullerton said in the letter that Hawkins had been elected 14 consecutive terms and that his loyalty to the county, the sheriff's office and the Democratic party was "beyond question."

"This is our opportunity to partially repay him for those many favors," Fullerton said in the letter.

BEWITCHING TWINS Erin and Diane Murphy act on television, but are never seen together. They share the role of three-year-old Tabatha on the television series "Bewitched." Child labor laws restrict the number of hours a lot may work, so when one's time is up, the other steps in. Here they're seen as mother's little helpers.

FAITH OPENS NEW HORIZONS WHEN YOU OPEN THE CHURCH DOOR

WHAT'S YOUR STATION?

Come let us go into the House of the Lord

What's your station? What is your destination? "There is a way that seemeth right unto a man, but the ends thereof are the ways of death." We are all aboard the train of life. Around the next curve may be your station. This is the road which leads to life eternal. You may travel in this way if you will. Are you ready, prepared? Are your plans made? "The path of the just is as a drawing light that shineth more and more unto the perfect day." The 'Great Conductor' counsels: "Strive to enter in by the narrow gate!" To those who follow His counsel he says: "Ye shall find rest unto your souls." What is your station?

You In The Church... The Church In You
Form a combination for good. We should attend church regularly. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the CHURCH. Be faithful Be a Churchman!

House measure called for the election of 100 delegates using the 1967 House apportionment.

The Senate bill would allow at least one delegate for every county, but those favoring the House measure claim the upper chamber's version would violate the U.S. Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote ruling.

Sen. Guy Jones of Conway introduced a resolution proposing that all legislation concerning the qualifications of Davis to serve as State Police director be delayed until the state Supreme Court announced its decision on a contempt citation against Davis.

Davis was jailed Dec. 5 for about 24 hours when Circuit Judge William J. Kirby cited him for contempt for failing to identify a confidential informant. After vigorous debate, the resolution failed.

The House rushed through the

3 Pilots Released by Enemy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department received word from Vientiane, Laos, today that three American pilots who had been captured by North Vietnam have arrived at the Laotian capital on their way to freedom.

State Department officials said that the first message reporting the arrival did not give the names of the men.

It was assumed by these officials that they were the same men whose names had been given by North Vietnam when the intention to release them was announced in January.

At that time the three were identified as Air Force Capt.
John David Black of Johnson
City, Tenn., Air Force Maj.
Morris Miller Overly of Detroit and Navy Ensign David Paul Matheny, who joined the service at South Bend, Ind.

empting drivers of laundry trucks from the provisions of the bill were attached to each while an amendment excluding farm workers was placed on one (SB62) but defeated on the other (SB61).

question—that Johnson had considered no decision of that nature.

The secretary added a further comment by the press aide, George Christlan:

"I might add that irresponsible discussion and speculation are a disservice to the country and I don't intend to say anything more about the subject."
Rusk's answer, made public Thursday by the State Department, ended on that note, without a direct reply to Fulbright's question.

Fulbright said a statement by Chairman Earle G. Wheeler of the Joint Chiefs of Staff had left the impression nuclear weapons would be used if needed.

Gen. Wheeler, asked Wednesday if nuclear weapons might be used if needed to defend the U.S. stronghold at Khe Sanh, said he didn't think such weapons would be required there.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon suggested Thursday that Wheeler might have been "trying to keep the enemy in some doubt as to what he may be up against."

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, interviewed separately by newsmen, said Thursday use of nuclear weapons in the war never has been discussed by the administration.

McNamara also came to the defense of Gen. William C.
Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Vietnam, termed inept by Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio.
Young told the Senate Westmoreland has been "outwitted and outgeneraled" by the North Vietnamese in their latest offensive and should be removed.

Rep. Glenn Davis, R-Wis., said in Milwaukee that Westmoreland will be removed from command by Easter and forecast an attempt "to make him the scapegoat of the Vietnam war." Davis said his information came from a very reliable White House source.

Another Wisconsin Republican, Rep. Vernon Thomson, echoed Davis and further forecast Westmoreland would be "elevated to the Joint Chiefs of Staff."

McNamara told newsmen criticism of Westmoreland, whose leadership he termed brilliant, was totally unjustified.

And Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he feels Westmoreland is doing "an excellent job, all things considered." Mansfield said he has heard no serious talk of replacing the general.

Davis Bill Fails, Wage Bills Pass

By ED SHEARER
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas House Thursday passed two minimum wage bills and an amended "Lynn Davis" measure while the Senate defeated its first measure of the special session—the administration's bill setting the procedure for a constitutional convention.

The 85-11 House vote on the Davis bill stirred up the most interest, especially after a letter from Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller was read in which he said Davis would withdraw from consideration for reappointment as State Police director if the amended bill passed.

Davis, who served for 4½ months before the Supreme Court ruled he failed to meet a 10-year residency requirement in the 1945 law, said at a news conference later in the day that he decided to withdraw because "I don't want to be remembered as the man who completely demoralized the State Police."

He said demoralization would occur if the department went another five months with someone "just filling in" as director.

The amendment to the administration's bill required the director to be a qualified elector, which means one must have resided in the state one year.

Many contended Davis was eligible because he did, in fact, register to vote in Texarkana four days after his resignation from the FBI in California last July when he returned to Arkansas to take the director's post.

However, Rockefeller talked of possible litigation tying Davis' hands until mid-July if someone decided to question whether Davis was a qualified elector.

Davis said he believed he could rejoin the FBI if he desired. He also said he could not understand why some legislators opposed him.

"All I've ever done is enforce the laws," Davis said.

Both houses faced a flurry of activity on two major pieces of legislation if they hoped to adjourn sine die by Saturday.

The Senate defeated 12-20 the House's bill setting up mechanisms for conducting a constitutional convention. A joint House-Senate committee was

Economy Figures Are Undercutting LBJ's Tax Hike Arguments

Associated Press
WASHINGTON (AP) — The figures which measure the nation's economy are undercutting—at least temporarily—Johnson administration efforts to prove a pressing need for its proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

The Federal Reserve Board reported Thursday the first drop in the nation's industrial output in four months just as Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler was telling Congress the economy is in "grave danger of excessive overheating."

The government indicated both sets of figures might do better this month.

The production decline came after two strong months following settlement of the Ford Motor Co. strike.

The Commerce Department said the income picture resulted from unusual factors—the rise in Social Security taxes in January and the puffed-up figures in December when retroactive government pay increases went on the books.

Despite the apparent softening in the figures, government experts insist the economy is already in an inflationary spiral and expanding at a pace it cannot take for long.

Fowler spoke of a possible recession if taxes are not raised and rejected an alternative—built partly around a substantial cut in the budget—proposed by

Three Injured in Accident at Fulton

Three persons were injured early yesterday afternoon when a gasoline truck overturned on top of an auto at Fulton at the Highway 67-30 junction.

Injured were Leon L. Crandell, 34, of Texarkana and Mr. and Mrs. Russell H. Hale of Mauston, Wis. All were brought to a local hospital for treatment.

Crandell had a leg injury, Hall, 66, treated for a head injury and his wife, Louise, 61, was treated for minor injuries.

Investigating State Troopers Wallace Martin and Robert Neel said the truck, driven by Crandell, swerved to avoid hitting another truck and overturned on top of the Wisconsin auto.

Wesley A. Johnson, 56, Madison, Tenn., driver of the second truck, was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way.

Highway Department workers spent all yesterday afternoon spreading sand on Highway 67 to soak up the spilled gasoline.

$6 Million Will Be Spent in Space Race by Our Congressmen

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Budget of the United States Government, page 17: "Changes, alterations, and remodeling Longworth House Office Building, including necessary related work," $6,058 million.

No trifling sum, considering congressional complaints about government spending.

A Capitol official explained. Remodeling the Longworth building across Independence Avenue from the Capitol, he said, would give each congressman-occupant a three-room suite. Now each occupant has only two.

Three, it seems, would help junior representatives catch up in the space race with their seniors who occupy the palatial new Rayburn office building next door.

And it would keep them even with occupants of the Cannon office building, now in the final stages of similar two-to-three remodeling.

Is there more to the space race than status?

"The staff is all crowded into this one room," said one harassed occupant of the Longworth building, which houses 203 congressmen.

"There's a constant din. Some people (in other offices) have used dividers but we didn't have the space. There are seven people in the one room," et space where we keep our parttime help. It's supposed to be an entrance to the private office but it's got two people and a typewriter.

"There's not even a place for a waiting constituent to sit down."

How about the condition of the Longworth, built in 1932. Is it sound?

"There's no question in the Longworth building of any danger," said a Capitol official, but he added that remodeling would improve lighting and air conditioning output.

"Lighting," said the harassed occupant. "We put two huge globes on the fixtures in here. It was so dim before that we didn't even know when the lights were on."

"The air conditioning isn't so bad, though. It's only a little stuffy. What we need is some carpeting to cut down some of the din."

We've had a requisition for carpeting since election day (1966). You better not use our name, or we'll never get the carpeting. It's supposed to be some cut-up pieces left over from the Cannon building."

The carpeting could be tied up in the $183,000 needed to complete the Cannon remodeling.

All the remodeling projects are in the hands of a House appropriations subcommittee, Chairman George W. Andrews, D-Ala., says. "It may be May before we consider it," he wouldn't predict the outcome.

Chairman William Proxmire, D-Wis., of the Senate-House Economic Committee.

The decline in production and income slowdown follow earlier government reports of record retail sales during January and the lowest unemployment rate in 14 years.

But congressional opponents of the surcharge are certain to cite the new figures to back their contention it isn't needed to stem inflation.

When President Johnson submitted the surcharge to Congress last August, the administration anticipated support from business statistics indicating a boom.

But just at the time support was needed the most, strikes distorted the figures, causing a decline in production, a slowdown in income and sales, and a rise in unemployment.

The Federal Reserve Board said Thursday its index of industrial output dropped six-tenths of a point from December's record to 161.2 percent of the 1957-59 base period.

Waste, Laxity in U.S. Foreign Aid Imperils $3 Billion Proposal

By ROBERT GRAY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A report detailing waste and laxity in U.S. foreign aid has further imperiled the program's $3 billion proposed budget, already in deep trouble in Congress.

The findings by State Department investigators ranged from a Vietnam businessman's attempt to buy howitzer and anti-aircraft gun parts for the Viet Cong, to purchase of champagne, glasses and gourmet foods for the Dominican Republic.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, called the report "most depressing and shocking."

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., a committee member, said the report "bodes very ill" for President Johnson's foreign aid request for 1968-69.

The report was prepared at the committee's request by J. K. Mansfield, the State Department's inspector general of foreign assistance. Some of its findings:

—Eighteen large crates of tools en route to Paraguay sat for nine years on a Buenos Aires dock.

—A shipment of 150 tons of bridge components went from Tokyo to Bangkok, Thailand, by air instead of ship because of an administrative slipup.

—A total of $100,000—$490 a day—was spent for water service to Saigon ships with not a drop ever delivered.

—Sixteen tons of chains for Pakistan were found on a Weehawken, N.J., dock where they'd been sitting since 1965.

—American dollars were spent in several countries, contributing to the dollar drain,

In seeking re-election I sincerely solicit your vote and support and pledge to all my continued loyalty to the citizens of this County."

Fulbright Accused of Disservice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk indirectly accuses Sen. J. W. Fulbright of "a disservice to the country" for questioning whether U.S. nuclear weapons will be used in Vietnam.

Fulbright, the Arkansas Democrat who heads the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, fired back a statement rejecting what he called Rusk's implication and adding:

"I believe it would be a grave disservice to our country, in truth a disaster, if our leadership should so expose our troops in Vietnam as to require nuclear weapons to prevent their destruction."

Responding to Fulbright's query last week on whether nuclear weapons are being or will be deployed in Vietnam, Rusk quoted the answer President Johnson's press secretary gave newsmen who posed a similar while the U.S. government held surplus amounts of local currency.

Fulbright said the report and other recent disclosures on foreign aid operations had a demoralizing effect on both his own support of the program and upon the confidence of the American people in it.

Four of the Agency for International Development, which runs the program, have resigned in an investigation of alleged acceptance of favors from a Belgian company holding a U.S. contract.

Another official, AID security chief John G. Bradley, has been temporarily relieved during an inquiry into alleged misuse of travel vouchers.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., said the report makes essential approval of his proposal for a special commission to improve foreign-aid operations.

"The aid program is very much in need of an overhauling to protect the taxpayer," Scott said. He called for "elimination of these wasteful practices that produce these horrible examples."

The $3 billion foreign aid request is $700 million higher than Congress approved for the current year and deep cuts appeared certain even before the new disclosures.

Arkansas Due to Get Colder

Clearing skies and warmer temperatures are predicted for Arkansas tonight and Saturday, but colder air and rain are forecast for Saturday night.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said a "massive new outbreak of Arctic air" is advancing southeastward and should move into Northwest Arkansas by early Saturday night.

The bureau said there would be a chance of precipitation along and behind the front from Central Arkansas southward by Saturday night and Sunday.

High temperatures over the state Thursday ranged from 40 at Texarkana and El Dorado to 33 at Harrison. Overnight lows ranged from 18 at Calico Rock and 21 at Fayetteville to 38 at Pine Bluff.

Only rainfall reported for the 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m. today was .01 an inch at Fayetteville.

Man Charged for Bookmaking

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Kenneth Wayne Matthews of North Little Rock posted bond of $204.75 after being arrested Thursday and charged with soliciting bets.

North Little Rock Police said they found four telephones, a rotary switchbox, a copy of the Daily Racing Form and some scratch sheets in Matthews' apartment.

U.S. Air Losses in War Already 800 and Higher Rate Predicted

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States already has lost 800 aircraft in North Vietnam and the Pentagon's chief scientist warns higher loss rates may lie ahead.

Dr. John S. Foster Jr. told the Armed Services Committee increased effectiveness of Hanoi's air defenses "indicates greater potential air attrition in the future."

"This is a very serious trend," Foster said. "We will have to work harder to maintain our presently low loss rate."

In light of the Soviet announcement of its intention to supply North Vietnam with additional military weapons, we must be prepared to counter additional threats."

Foster, Pentagon director of defense research and engineering, made the comments in closed-door committee hearings last week. A censored version of his statements was made public Thursday.

Only Wednesday the United States reported what apparently were the 799th and 800th aircraft it has lost over the North since 1965. They were an Air Force F105 and a Navy F8 hit by ground fire in raids within a few miles of Hanoi.

Another F105 was downed Feb. 5 by a MIG 21 northwest of Hanoi. These have not yet been cranked into the official aircraft loss total which stood at 797 as of Jan. 30.

The 800, however, is only the top of the iceberg as far as the over-all war investment in planes and helicopters is concerned.

As of Jan. 30 the United States had lost 227 other combat planes and 505 combat helicopters to enemy action in South Vietnam.

In another catch-all category the Pentagon lists 1,702 aircraft destroyed, including 889 fixed-wing planes and 813 choppers.

Other Marine units operating 13 miles southwest of Da Nang reported killing 31 enemy troops Thursday in a three-hour battle. Marine casualties were given as two killed and 25 wounded.

Near Khe Sanh, meanwhile, a Marine patrol returning to the beleaguered base on Thursday came under heavy mortar attack, and the fire continued after a relief patrol was sent out. Twelve Marines were killed and 107 wounded, while enemy casualties, if any, were not known.

The Khe Sanh base continued to take a beating from enemy artillery, rockets and mortar. Communist gunners slammed in 124 rounds Thursday, killing two Leathernecks and wounding 28.

U.S. military analysts in Washington began to think the expected big ground assault on Khe Sanh might never be sprung. Some analysts suggested the Communists could focus enough dug-in artillery on the base to make the Americans give it up. But other U.S. officers stuck to the expectation of a mass infantry attack.

There was a distinct possibility they would be the targets for the Communists' first use of air power in South Vietnam. At least six Russian IL28 bombers have been found within striking range of Khe Sanh.

Fighting Heavy in City of Hue

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Heavy fighting continued inside the historic walled Citadel at Hue today, the number of U.S. combat planes lost in the air war against North Vietnam reached 800, the U.S. Command reported another battle just outside Hue, and enemy mortar fire around Khe Sanh killed 14 U.S. Marines and wounded 135.

With the battle for Hue in its 17th day, AP correspondent Lewis M. Simons reported that U.S. Marine bombers, Navy destroyers offshore and Marine artillery kept blasting at North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops holding out along the southern wall of the Citadel, the former imperial seat in the coastal city 400 miles northeast of Saigon.

The Communists were holed up in well defended positions along the stone Citadel wall, which is 6 feet thick and 15 feet high. As Marine F8 Crusaders and A4 Skyhawks raked the wall for the third straight day, gunfire crackled between the die-hard Communists and U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops on the opposite bank of the Perfume River.

Meanwhile, Leathen's necks from the 5th Marine Regiment—who entered the Citadel through the uncontested northeast corner—were advancing along the eastern wall of the Citadel with about 300 yards to go before reaching the bulk of the enemy parallel to the river. The Marines poured fire toward the Communists from a newly captured tower on the fortified wall. The former Communist stronghold, seized Thursday, afforded a clear field of fire across the Citadel grounds.

Moving forward roughly parallel to the Marines along the western side of the Citadel were some 3,000 South Vietnamese soldiers and Marines.

The Communist resistance rested in large on the use of small arms, automatic weapons and rockets. "That rocket is a damned effective weapon," said Marine Maj. Joseph M. Gratto, 31, of Canton, N.Y.

Four miles west of Hue on Thursday, paratroopers from the U.S. 101st Airborne Division ran into another enemy force. The paratroopers were reinforced by elements of the 1st U.S. Air Cavalry Division and supported by gunship helicopters. The Communists left 56 dead when they fled after five hours, the U.S. Command said, while three Americans were killed and 14 wounded.

Other Marine units operating 13 miles southwest of Da Nang reported killing 31 enemy troops Thursday in a three-hour battle. Marine casualties were given as two killed and 25 wounded.

Near Khe Sanh, meanwhile, a Marine patrol returning to the beleaguered base on Thursday came under heavy mortar attack, and the fire continued after a relief patrol was sent out. Twelve Marines were killed and 107 wounded, while enemy casualties, if any, were not known.
